The Undercrust of the Metropolison a "Timothy Canty" Excursion.

A Tough, Harum-Nearum Rabble at the Start and a Boosy and Ugly Crowd at the Wind-Up.

"Dinandal" in Cineliniati Enquirer

I had long had a desire to go on one these excursions, and the other day I embraced the opportunity offered by an excur-sion of the "Timothy Canty association" I had been told there would be a wild, harum-searum and doddedly tough crowd at hand me, and at 6 80 in the morning get off the elevated railroad at Grand street and took a street car that carried us over to the East yards and a muddy alley, and emerged on a dock that was in the last stages of decay.

profusely and occasionally smoking. There were fat women carrying four or five lunch-baskets and as many children apieco, and worn and dragged-out mothers with bables at their breasts, and half a dozen other little ones hanging on their skirts. The morning ones manging on their series. The morning was sultry, and persphation streamed off their haces? At least half a hundred young Arabs, whom I recognized as newsboys, were rushing up and down the dock and screeching like owle, and a dozon surly tramps, who had been refused admission to the boat by the gang plank keepers, lounged at the side and made leading remarks to the women who were delegated.

The haborers snoked their papes stelldly, and the young men-lighted their two-for-five-cent cigars, while they afterprise leaves or less follow with the ighted their two-for-live-cent cigars, while they attempted more or less jolity with the girls. The children were already intoxicated by the buoyant air, and had become utterly ammanageable. The band played cheap and familian airs with measure vigor, and by the time the steamer had reached James' slip—perhaps a mile further down the river than the starting place—the people burst into cheers at sight of an excursion barge which lay beside a pier. The steamboat steamed in

Whenever he struck a man who was old enough to vote he made it a point to shake hands with him effusively, and a moment later the two were seen standing against the bar. It took him three hours to get through the outlier around this received was the entire crowd this way, and nobody wa a good many of the excursionists rang in twice on the "boss," as he was dubbed. New York he is sure of a good political outlook.

At 10 o'clock the steamer made in toward the right bank of the Hudson river, and pulled up at a place just below Dobb's ferry, over which was a liaming sign bearing the name of a well-known browery. The people flocked ashore, and it is presumed that no children had been lost, as there were no anxious waitings from the mothers. They trooped away like sheep, and rushed into the alleged park.
There they are their lunches which they had brought with them, and talked interminably, while their children played around in the alleged woods, and the young people sont each other whirling through the air in the long swings, an I merry go rounds.

At 4 o'clock they were all summoned to the steamer by repeated whistles, and after half hour's todious delay, every body scarced down toward the city. The park was closed, the politician was asleep in the captain's room of the barge, and many of the honest laborers were in a state of advanced joyousness. The young poople gave up the waitz and indulged in a sort of a cun-can, and the

There were also girls innumerable, most of them looked like factory and shop girls, though a few were neat, plain dresses, which indicated that they spent their time at home. They were gaudily attired and loud in their manners and speech. All were running for the loat, though it was not advertised to sail until half an hour later, and would even then by held to await the arrival of late comers. Once at the gaust plank the children.

scorching force on the water Steam rose The people settled themselves in groups as quickly as possible, and a light of two young men for a camp stool resulted in no particular interest, except when a deck-hand came up and knocked them both out and took the stool away from them. Then the denizers of the Fourth ward tooked at the deck-hand the trip. First, the people were packed in solidly on the aft main deck. They sat as close together as they could conveniently, usually in little choics with the children in the middle. The children clambened incessantly over the legs of their parents so as to get out of the family circle. As soon as they got out they were ruthlessly torsed in again.

the children were swarming about the steam-cron all sides, and climbing on the outside of the railings of the docks. It was a marvel that two or throo did not fall overboard every minute, but they were harrly little rats and seemed to be wateled by a special providence. After the crowd had been packed on the aft section of the beat they were placed forward. The deckhands and the master of ceremonles—as the champion bruise with unconscious irony was dubbed—pushed the people around like sheep, and treated them without the slightest degree of civility. So they were packed in all around on the steamer until there was sarroly country many an the outer decks. scarcely from to move on the outer decks. Then they were put into the cabins, and at last, with a creak and a groan and a blace by an en subting band, the steamer moved from the pler and started down the river, By this time the girls and young men had paned of quite extensively and managed to scure sents together in the different parts of the steamer, but there was such an enormous crowd that skylarking was rendered absolately impossible, and the maidens and their lovers looked as if they were bound on a trip to the informal regions, so sad and mournful who their faces. I had a close look at a great many of the faces of the New York working guls, and I must say the sight was not a pleusant one. Many of them had rietly and well-formed features, and under favorable conditions would undoubtedly be considered attractive, but the poor diet, misorable hones, scant sleeping time and stifling rooms in which they had been brought up, had made them round-shouldered and scrawny, and had apparently taken the blood out of their veins. It has been some years since Mr. Greeley advised the young men of the country to "go West," but the New York Graphic has just found out that the cry now comes from those who "do not know what continuous hard work and hurdship it is, and who do not go Wese at all! ### OUR PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

We are glad to see the prosperity of our schools. Although an addition of two hundred and forty seats has been nude by the opening of the building in the fifth ward, still all the rooms are full enough and some are still crowded. We trust that the board will see to it that the pupils are as equally distributed as can bo dono without serious inconvenience to anyone. This is always a thankiess task but it should not, therefore be avoided. It is a great injustice to the teacher and a grievous wrong to the children when a room is overcrowded. Except in the case of the very smallest pupils a difference of three or four blocks in the distance to be ion of 102 days, which cost the state travelled is a matter of very small im-

We are pleased to see that the Board of WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.-A gentleman Education is fully alive to the importance of keeping our schools on a par with the best in the state. The introduction of a full classical course in our high school is a step in the right direction. There is no good reason why our boys and girls should not be fitted here at home to enter the best colleges in the land. In the past, graduates of our high school have been compelled to spend two years in propuntion before they could enter the classical courses of the bost eastern or western colleges. It is true they were admitted at our State Industrial University upon their diplomas and Cornell University granted substantially the same magnate of Erie, Pa., who was a privilege to those who proposed to enter the Latin-scientific course of that institution. But to those who wished to enter the classical courses two years' study of Greek was necessary. To secure this privilege to our children, the Board has secured the services of Mr. Henry P. Page, a graduate of Michigan University in the class of 1883. We learn that he is giving excellent satisfaction and that his classes are enthusiastic in endeavoring to master the mysteries of the Greek and Latin languages. We would suggest to our young men and women who graduated in past years that these classes offer an exboard the steamer Virginia, which collect opportunity for more extended It seems to us that in one respect our who holds a high tank among the Readjusters of Virginia is authority for the statement that there are very serious dissensions he his party and that these dissensions bid fair to bring Mahone to griof. It appears that Senutor Riddleherger and Gov. Cameron are taking no active part in the pending campaign. Next to Mahone these two men are more influential than any other Readjuster leaders, but at present they are keeping themselves in the background. are chaffing under the nical bessism of Mahone. The latter is not only exacting and brutal in his demands, but he is intensely solfish in the use of his powder. Riddleberger is represented to be irritated by the way in which his own advice and wishes are studiously ignored in matters relating to patronage, For a man having six years in the United States Senate, he thinks be ought to have some influence and recognition in these things. He is not satisfied with being the mere "me too" of Mahone, and it is reported that he is now disposed to puddle his own cance. Gov. Cameron's dissatis'action arises from Ma-hone's constant imperious dictation in the state affairs of Virginia. Mahone treats these affairs as though he were Governer of the state and insists on monopolizing the use of the state patronage as well as the Reducal. Such are the reasons given for the lukewarmness of Riddleberger and Cameron. They are the best stump speakers in the Readjuster ranks, and for this sort of work they have been largely used by Mahone la previous campaigns. The ran aware of the dissensions among the leader and the situation is growing more and more

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Capt. Cazhire, Acting Chief Signal officer, furnishes the following statement of what Lieut. Garington was able to do in the way of leaving supplies and information for Lieut. Greeley's party, and probable movements of the latter, based on information received yesterday at the Signal office. Lieut. Greeley was to leave his station not later than September 1, and to move south by boats with the expectation of reaching Cape Sabine by September 15. Lieut. Garington left blin at that point 500 rations and s supply of clothing. This added to 240 rations there would give him 740 rations, o thirty-seven days' supplies for the entire party. He will also receive at Cape Sabine news of Garlington's disaster and of his retreat south. If Greeley reached Caps Satreat south. If Greeiey reached Cape Sa-bine yesterday, as may be reasonably ex-pected, and crosses to Littleton island, where he will find 200 rations more and fur-ther news of Gudington's continued move-ment south, it is hoped he will be able to continue south to Upernavik, reaching there, say in one month and before winter soason has fairly set in.

sions of the cenference of the M. Is. church, south, are going on pleasantly and steadily at the Elm street church. Bishop Wilson, of Raltimore, is in the chair. He is a young bishop, but is giving universal satisfaction to all parties, and some very important work is being done at the conference, raisng the standard of ministerial character and readening the area of the church's operallous. The committees are doing more horough work than usual. Some more promising young men are coming into the onference. Business proceeds without tar. The people of Chillicothe were prom-ted by the list of appointments yesterday vare treat. The sessions will continue untim-night at least. The entertainment of the conference is bountoons and cordial. Vast congregations crowd upon all the services. There is the largest sitendance of the members of the conference for years past, and only two deaths during the year are reported. Several transfers have been received. The order of preachers is very high.

Falls Two Mandred Feet. LANCASTER, O., Sept. 17. Butcher Shannon, a carpenter of this city, met with borrible death Sunday afternoon. As usual on pleasant Sunday afternoons many people are seen upon the dizzy heights of Mount Pleasant, a hill rising almost perpendicular 300 feet from the fair grounds, immediately below. Yesterday afternoon the fair grounds were occupied by the alored people of the vicinity, holding on top of the mount were enjoying the sight below. Shannon and several friends were exhibiting some daring feats, foolhardy in the extreme, by leaping from crag to rock in the most dangerous places on the very apex of the mount. White climbing out on an everhanging cliff he missed his footing and fell headlong down and was crushed to death on the rocks 200 feet below.

A Printer ShoL GLASGOW, Mo., Sept. 17 .- At a late hour Saturday night a printer living in this city, named Charles M. Digues, was skot by a negro named William Wood. The negroes vere having a dance in the lower part of town and young Digges and some other boys were present. During the dance a rew occured between the white boys and the negroes, during which Woods drew a small pistol and shot Digges in the forehead, inflicting a serious but not necessarily dangerous wound. The negro claims that Digges made at him with a knife, and that e acted in self-defense. He escaped the next day, when he was captured by Deputy Sheriff Garnett. His trial will take place o-day before 'Squire Barton. Stones Anxious to Play Scator.

Kicked by a Horse Sunday evening at about five o'clock, Guy Towling, the 6-year old son of Wm. Towling, the book-binder, was kicked in the left side of his head by a shoeless horse, in front of the family residence at 1139 North Church street. The old horse is owned by John March, and was on the Towling boulevard grazing, when Guy attempted to drive him away. The horse got cranky and kicked, and the boy, who was knocked senseless, was picked up for dead. He came to within 15 minutes. and was examined by Dr. W. J. Chenoweth. There was no fracture noticeable, but the skin was bruised and torn. This morning the lad was able to talk. There is a bump on the side of his head as big as a goose egg, and his neck is quite sore In Search for His Team.

Benj. L. Bates, aged 78 years, hailing from Columbia, Mo. arrived in Decatur this poon. looking for his runaway wife and his team. Mr. Bates says his wife left his home some weeks ago, in com pany with a bad woman, taking his son his team, his chickens and his ducks. He says he walked nearly 400 miles to Jacksonyille, where he heard of the outfit. He got money from friends and came here on the train. The officers say the team was seen passing through Decatur east during fair week. Mr. Bates doesn't care anything about his wife. He wants to recover his wagon and team. The wagon is drawn by a gray horse and a mule. The old man seems to be a respectable gentleman, and there is no reason to doubt the story of his troubles The age of the runaway wife was 62.

The alleged circus pickpocket, Henry Roseberry, was brought before Justice McGorray, where he answered to a charge of disorderly conduct and was fined $10 and costs, making a total of about $16. He was sent down to join the chain gang At the time of his arrest by Special Officer Josiah Abbott at the Barnum show Roseberry land three pocketbooks, a broken watch chain, several gold rings and about $3 on his person. Suddenly Mr. Hedges whirled about, but in doing so he fell off the counter and striking the floor his right leg was broken in two placesbelow the knee and above the ankle. both bonce being broken. Mr. Hedges, whose father resides near Oreana, was taken to his home and was attended by Dr. Walston. The playfulness of that "bad boy" with the groceryman ended quite seriously. He will doubtless behave himself in future.

Heavy Raine. The heavy soaking rain which visited this section Sunday morning was quite unexpected, as the moonlit sky was clear on Saturday might up to 12 o'clock. The rain came down in torrents about daylight, flooding the streets and overflowing the gutters and walks, and during Sunday formoon there were frequent heavy showers. Farmers report that the rain extended over a considerable portion of the county, moistening the land and making fall plowing possible. The rains were very welcome, as the earth has been hard and difficult to work.

Mr. A. C. Laughlin, who resides 314 miles southeast of Decatur, brought to our office on Saturday a handful of broken unils, and other bits of iron, takes from the stomach of one of his cows that died a few days ago. The cow was found to be very sick one morning, and in spite of everything that could be done to relieve her, died in a few hours. An exam mation of the contents of her stomach revealed the presence of the metallic contents, though nothing in the appearance of that organ tended to show that they had snything to do with the cow's sickness and death, and inasmuch as another of Mr. Laughlin's cows was similarly affected at the same time, but recovered goes to prove that some other cause than that of the iron in the stomach made them sick. Farmers tell us that it is not uncommon to find nails, etc., in the stomachs of cattle—picked up doubtless, and swallowed when licking the carth where ashes have been placed.

has been chosen a delegate from THE Pennsylvania Legislature has been in session 240 days, at a cost $750,000. The cost of the extra session alone has been $280,000. The tion as a candidate for the Guberna extra session was called to pass an torial nomination. Mr. Adams de clined the latter honor, but accepted pportionment bill, but the Democrats persistently refuse all comprothe first. He said: mises and so continue the deadlock. The tax payers will find the experiment of bogus "reform" rather experiment of bogus "reform" rather expensive.

It seems that Wendell Phillips ted last year to partially fall. To still clings to Gen. Butler after all. But this does not alter the fact that one needful thing in entering on Butler is less of a Greenbacker and Labor Reformer than he was. Office and other circumstances have had the effect of making him more conservative. It is to be hoped that keep cut of the way of either of the Wendell will continue to find that two gentlemen in themselves wholly Butler is a truly good and unselfishly ontriotic man.

The Population of China,

Minister Young reports that the earnest advocate of one of these two official census of China, taken last year for the purpose of taxation, the larger number. I cannot allow shows a total population in that my name to be presented to it. not include the Mongolian or other not include the Mongolian or other outlying dependencies of the empire, but only the eighteen provinces of China proper. Nor does it embrace the aboriginal tribes which exist in very considerable numbers in Formosa and in four of the provinces. Making all due allowances, Minister Young thinks it probable that the total population of China exceeds 300,000,000. This accords with the latest estimates of statisticians, which reduce the population of China from 450,000,000 to nearly 300,000,000.

Those two words have a vast meaning when fully comprehended. A perfect success can be truthfully applied to Dr. Jores' Red Clover Tonic, which cures dyspepsia, bilionsuces, costiveness, all disenses of the kidneys, liver and bladder. It is a perfect tonic and blood purifler; it keeps the skin clear and bright, drives away pimples and makes the general health excellent. Price 50 cents, of Dr. A. J. M. FERRY, the French Prime Ministor, is reported as saying that the consequences of the Comte de Chambord's death would in nowise disturb the Government. It was impossible for the Legitimists or Orleanists to form a party to begin an unconstitu-tional campaign. He did not believe that the Orloanists would assume the attitude of pretenders. The Comte de Paris, like his mother, had the cool, calm blood of the Germans. His position would be very difficult among the old Bourbons, who would wish to surround him. Besides, the Monarchical party was a very small one. If to day there were general elections, hardly thirty Royalists would be returned. The party consisted of some 3,000 nobles, about thirty Bishops, and a few thousand priests, monks and servants. The Royalists might go to Goritz and display the fleur de lys, but every Royalist demonstration in France would be severely repressed. If the Comte de Paris issued a proclamation be would not be allowed to return, or, doing so, would be expelled.
